

Houston Air Quality Report

- Thus far in calendar year 2007, the Houston/Galveston area has experienced fourteen days with at least one monitor in exceedence of the eight hour standard and six days in exceedence of the one hour standard. The highest eight hour average concentration (112 ppb) occurred on May 15, 2007 at the Crosby Library monitor. The highest one hour reading (166 ppb) was on May 14, 2007 at the LaPorte Sylvan Beach monitor.
- The South Coast AQMD (Los Angeles area) has recorded 50 eight hour exceedence days thus far in 2007 with an eight hour average of 137.8 ppb on July 1 (including a one hour peak of 171 ppb).